The space

Our one bedroom Artist's Loft is not just another place to sleep and work, it is a creative immersive art experience. We invite a responsible person/artist(s), or a couple, to visit our beautiful, recently renovated, private loft, nestled above our Art Studio/home. Feel free to write a poem, paint or sculpt if you feel inspired. You may observe art projects in progress from windows that look into the art studio/home or you may also draw the blinds for privacy. Guests may have tea or coffee with the artists, discuss art and get advice on local art happenings and installations in the area. Brian is available to have coffee and or give tours of his local art installations. Just ask. The location is excellent, in the center of the arts & design quarter of the Mission, safe, with lots of character, surrounded by trees and some of the best restaurants, theaters, art galleries, cafes and shopping in San Francisco. There are three theaters in our building: Z Space, Z Below, and Theater of Yugen. There is also a performance space next door where they sometimes have classes you may join. It is just a few blocks from the historic Rainbow Grocery Cooperative. The Mission is an international favorite neighborhood to explore local Murals. Our Space is five blocks to bustling foodie friendly Valencia Street and the BART (the local subway) station. The neighborhood is a pleasant area to walk, bike and just 10min to downtown SF by BART. Brian was super sweet and very considerate. He gave us a brief tour when we first arrived which was really helpful. I loved the space so much. He told us about some of the art projects that he was working on and they are super interesting. I love that his current project is aiming to raise awareness for climate change. This place is incredibly unique and I don't think I'll come across anywhere that I'll enjoy as much. We really enjoyed using the speaker in the kitchen and we loved all of the antique furniture and items all throughout the studio. I highly recommend this studio space. Thank you so much!

Brian was an exceptional host with an equally exceptional place. His attention to detail and design was impressive, his studio was incredibly interesting, and he was wonderful to talk with about art and life and the neighborhood. Even the coffee was really good. We were comfortable, inspired, and sad to leave.

We enjoyed our stay at this lovely airbnb! Brian was very friendly and took the time to tell us about some of the unique furniture and art in the loft and in his studio when we asked. He gave a tour of parts of the artist community, which was awesome to see. He also gave great recommendations. We'd love to stay here again!

This was a fantastic space! It's fun and funky, clean and relaxing. I enjoyed the furnishings and little collections around the space. Bring above the sculpture studio was fun. Street parking was easy (how? In sf) and it's also easy walking to the grocery store and restaurants. Brian was a super great host, easy to talk to and very responsive. Thanks!!!

The space was clean, organized, and well cared for. Each piece of art was either created by the host or created by friends of the host, which added a layer of personality and warmth to the space. We'll definitely be back!

What a lovely place to stay and come home to everyday! The loft is impressively comfortable, spacious and quiet. It is filled with any amenity you require and dispersed in between are artworks created by Brian and the greater art community. The immediate area is just as charming and you'll be spoilt for café and food options. A local fresh grocer will provide you with anything else. Brian is a generous and Brian's studio space is unique, clean, comfortable, and in a great location. It was very cool staying in an active art space and supporting a local artist in doing so. Brian is also a gracious and welcoming host, and was super helpful during check in.

Beautiful and unique place, Brian was more than helpful - very responsive and made check in from flying extremely easy.

The property was easy to find and felt safe and secure. Plenty of amenities nearby and Brian gave some good recommendations for food options. Thoroughly enjoyed our stay and would have loved to stay another night but unfortunately the place was too popular.

September 2023

My wife and I had a wonderful stay. Sadly we were only there for a couple days - we easily could have stayed for weeks it was so comfortable and beautiful. We were working remotely for part of the time and the living room area was great for this with big windows and the inspiring views of the studio below. We loved looking around the studio - Brian's sculptures are fascinating and I wish we had more time to learn about all of the work he is doing. There were also some great coffee shops in the area and it was easy to walk to great restaurants, shops, parks, etc. We will definitely come back next time we are in SF

WOW! This listing is truly a gift. I only spent a night at the property, but I spent most of my time admiring the art in the studio as well as in the apartment itself. The split between the art studio and apartment space is clean and clear. Brian is a phenomenal host who spends time walking you through the apartment and provides a bit of history for notable areas in the home. I really had a great night and highly recommend this location to anyone visiting SF.

Brian's place was great!!! He was super friendly and easy to communicate with. Definitely a unique space. The loft is located above his art studio and he built it himself. It was such a fun place to stay. It was very private too. We loved it and are excited to hopefully stay again in the future.

This is a gem of the artsy Mission district. As an artist myself, I felt extremely excited and happy to be staying in the loft of a working studio, part of a block sized Artist Collective. — pretty much a lifelong dream — to get to come and see the studio with projects in progress was a delight. The loft itself is up a beautiful spiral staircase, and loft space is beautifully appointed with artwork and carefully curated pieces from all over the world. I had a great bath in the clawfoot tub, a nice cup of tea sitting by the beautiful windows and a great night sleep in the huge bed. If you're an artist especially I highly recommend this beautiful space. Plus restaurants galore, including Tartine a block away. And a beautiful community grocery store just another block away.

Brian's studio loft has a lot of intricate details and a lot of thought was put into creating the space. It has a really warm character, very inviting. Would recommend to a friend for sure!

July 2023

The photos and description did not do Brian's place justice. Though San Francisco is an incredible city to visit, staying here makes the experience that much more majestic. Everything about the loft and the art studio below are intentional. The area is convenient with a market, chocolate shop, and world-famous bakery, just a block away. The space and amenities make you feel right at home while simultaneously transporting you to a different era. Brian himself is an interesting and talented artist who is willing to share his work and passions with you. Because she is a friend of Brian's, we even met the poet laureate of San Francisco while there! There really is no other place I'd like to stay when in SF.

photos and description - it was unique and so thoughtfully assembled. With a spectacular view over the studio below, it's the perfect place for creatives, and art-appreciators, to glean inspiration. The loft itself is very clean and comfortable. It houses a plethora of artifacts and artwork, each with its own backstory. It's hard to look at any corner of the room without spotting something special. Brian kindly met me at the door and gave a full tour of his space. He answered all of my questions, gave recommendations for goings-on during my stay, and chatted about his current (extraordinary) ventures/projects! I would absolutely stay in Brian's space again and would highly recommend it to anyone.

My wife and I stayed in Brian's beautiful space located within his working art studio and it truly was one of a kind. Every detail within the apartment is carefully considered and highlights the unique nature of the Bay Area. The bed is a very comfortable king, the laundry room is convenient for a longer stay. The kitchen is well appointed and the sitting area was comfortable with a view into the courtyard and studio space. The apartment is located right near Tartine which was perfect for our early morning breakfast and coffee stops. We appreciated the variety of other food options offered by the proximity to The Mission. We flew into SFO and were able to take BART and walk to the space so that was another point for convenience. There was some minor noise from trucks and gates being opened in the night (to be expected in the city) but otherwise it was a fabulous location and space, we would definitely stay again if we were in the area.

One of the best bnb experiences. Right from Brian being a wonderful, supremely helpful host to the place being a beautiful, comforting abode, I cannot recommend this place highly enough!

There is a reason for all of the amazing reviews on this listing. The apartment itself is a piece of art - built with great detail and love. Brian was an amazing host who was a pleasure to get to interact with. The apartment is in a nice safe part of the city. You will not be disappointed staying here.
